UN Min. Standards for Treatment of Prisoners: Nelson Mandela Rule 11 stipulates prisoners be separated on the basis of SEX (& others categories not incl. gender identity). Any jurisdiction that places males in female prisons is contravening internationally recognised standards.

Separation of categories

Rule 11

The different categories of prisoners shall be kept in separate institutions or parts of institutions, taking account of their sex, age, criminal record, the legal reason for their detention and the necessities of their treatment; thus:

(a) Men and women shall so far as possible be detained in separate institutions; in an institution which receives both men and women, the whole of the premises allocated to women shall be entirely separate;

(b) Untried prisoners shall be kept separate from convicted prisoners;

(c) Persons imprisoned for debt and other civil prisoners shall be kept separate from persons imprisoned by reason of a criminal offence;

(d) Young prisoners shall be kept separate from adults.

Holly Lawford-Smith

A 15-year-old Australian girl was recently removed from her home and put under a protection order with her parents being judged "abusive" because they refused to affirm her gender identity and agree to support her starting on cross-sex hormones.

Her paren s say they believe that a loss of friends, lack of socia skills, and d ffic s start to puberty explain their daughter s dis ress, rather than her being trans.

A bil to prohibit "conversion therapy" in Victoria, written with input from trans rights activists, would vindicate the state s approach in this case

It seeks to class as a conversion practice anything that does not support or affirm a child's claim to have a sexua orientation or "gender identity" and modifies the Family Violence Act to nclude an example of failing to affirm a family member imprisonment and up to $200,000 in fines.

Conversion practices are generally understood to be counselling or other interventions aimed at changing a child s sexua orientation In the Victorian bil, however a prohibition on conversion is extended to "gender identity" too.

It also establishes a commission to investigate, educate, and impose punishments on individuals accused of attempting to change or suppress a person's sexual orientation or gender identity.

Detransitioners make plain that not every child who identifies as trans is actually trans. The Victorian bill will make it extraordinarily difficult for anyone in contact with a child who claims a gender identity to support them in a way that takes seriously the fact that they might not actually be trans.

And that is very bad news for all the children who are dealing with emotional trauma, or influenced by peer contagion, or are autistic, or are gay or lesbian, who have latched onto the idea of gender identity as a solution to their problems but may be wrong about that identification.

What "gets wrong" is conflating gender identity together with sexual orientation, as though everything we know about this history of attempts to change or suppress sexual orientations on religious grounds can simply be applied over to gender identity because someone somewhere added a "T" to the LGB.

Sexual orientation and gender identity are not alike. Thinking that they are is perhaps the greatest impediment to stating legal changes around gender identity today.

Gender identity is a recent cultural invention, providing an umbrella for a diverse range of people who have in common, at best, nonconformity with some gender stereotypes.

The idea that everyone has a gender identity, where gender identity is a subjective sense of oneself as a man, woman, or neither, and where this identity is more important than one's biological sex, has been defended by influential public intellectuals like Judith Butler, and taken up in the popular culture with great enthusiasm.

The idea's popularity correlates with the sharp rise in numbers of children being referred to gender clinics. The Bell judgment notes a 2500 per cent increase in less than 10 years (from 97 in 2009 to 2519 in 2018), at the Royal Children's Hospital in Melbourne there was an increase of 1767 per cent between 2012 and 2019.

Foster teen who has been under the care of Brudekin. Unidentified.

But fashionable ideas fall out of fashion. What happens then to the health of the children who have been medically and surgically transitioned?

and in need of fixing through puberty blockers, cross-sex hormones, and surgeries, and securing a future where detransitioned bodies may well be considered "broken" by those whose bodies they are, adults who were let down by medical professionals as children.

An affirmation-only approach to sexual orientation risks nothing.

An affirmation-only approach to gender identity risks lifetime medical dependence and takes medical risks with experimental treatments, upon children who lack the capacity to consent to these treatments and who may well live to regret them.

The current non binary craze is simply a rebrand of androgyny of the 80s & 90s (but Gen X were way classier!). It is a manifestation of teenage rebellion, but it's being enshrined in law and has dire consequences for children electing a medicalised pathway.

I've got to say it's weird how in the last 6 months despite showing no interest in feminism before, both OJ and Maugham have adopted Judith Butler as their favourite "feminist" icon. Can't think why that might be.

I was really quite cross listening to that interview - so many unfounded accusations, assertions made in the absence of evidence, cavalier dismissal of women's concerns about males in their spaces & casual denigration of GC women as "transphobes". Butler is no icon of feminism.

Am I the only one who REALLY wants to talk about something other than the trans issue? It feels like we're constantly being forced to defend ourselves on that front and I'm sick of it. Imagine how feminism as a whole would've progressed by leaps and bounds if not for this

I think this issue has galvanised many women who would not have joined the women's resistance otherwise. Once we bring down the gender identity ideology industry, I suspect many women will be eager to turn our formidable energies to fighting other problems that women face.

"My Body is Me" is a lovely read by author @rachelrooney in frequent rotation with my 3 little daughters at bedtime. We often say the words together and talk about all the different children in the pictures. Highly recommend for any young child to instil a positive body image!

Women have laid out the reasons why female spaces are important, necessary & beneficial to all.

This right was not handed to us. We had to earn the right to be safe & have privacy. All we want is to maintain the hard won right.

Frankly, we shouldn't have to justify it anymore

Neoliberal countries with limited materialist, feminist and socialist cultures (US, Canada) seem to be the most completely captured by genderism at population level.

In Europe, everyone knows De Beauvoir or Marx. In the US, Beyonce is a feminist icon and Marx a terrorist.

I invite people to do their own research, that would include listening to a plurality of views, to make up their own minds. You might want to read up on criticisms of critical theory especially in relation to "privilege" and opinions being regarded as "policing" others.

There are a whole lot of ethical issues around that, a well-trained lawyer would not do that knowingly, they could be liable for professional negligence unless they had obtained explicit consent from client to proceed on a basis of "unsound law".

There are a whole lot of ethical issues around that. a well-trained lawyer would not do that knowingly, they could be liable for professional negligence unless they had obtained explicit consent from client to proceed on a basis of "unsound law"

Even then a well-trained, ethical lawyer should be reluctant to proceed, you could recuse yourself. Your first duty is to the court (ie rule of law), then the client, it could be argued you had breached those duties. A lawyer is not compelled to do whatever the client wants.

"Harmful" how? Who gets to decide what's "quick"? At what point are we allowed to call something out as misogynist, pray tell, we're all dying to know, because clearly, as a man, you are the supreme arbiter of when a woman is entitled to criticise a male for being misogynist?

Harmful as its like the term racist or homophobic if its used wrongly it looses its effect. There are definitions for what it is and by just simply disagreeing is not misogynistic. listen to woman who are fed up with it being used as a weapon rather than its true form.

Further to that, we do have equal rights, it's all there in the SDA & CEDAW. Problem is the legislators choose to ignore it, & they diluted it by inserting gender identity which they then privilege over sex. But we do have it. Need legal action to fortify these existing rights.

c. the number of those who were born intersex? 0

2) As at 24th September 2020, how many children and adolescents, who are transgender or gender diverse, are receiving stage one puberty blocker treatment at the Perth Children's Hospital Gender Diversity Service?

As at 24/9/2020, a total of 48 adolescents were on stage 1 puberty suppression treatment. Please note that puberty suppression is only commenced after puberty has begun (that is, the young person has entered adolescence); hence by definition, young people receiving puberty suppression are properly called adolescents.

a. the number of those whose birth assigned sex was female? 29
b. the number of those whose birth assigned sex was male? 19
c. the number of those who were born intersex? 0

3) As at 24th September 2020, how many children and adolescents, who are transgender or gender diverse, are receiving stage two gender affirming hormone treatment at the Perth Children's Hospital Gender Diversity Service?

As at 24/9/2020, a total of 63 adolescents were on stage 2 estrogen or testosterone gender affirming treatment.

a. the number of those whose birth assigned sex was female? 48
b. the number of those whose birth assigned sex was male? 15
c. the number of those who were born intersex? 0

We note that the Gender Diversity Service is a transgender health service, not an intersex service, and the vast majority of patients referred to the GDS do not have any difference of genital sexual development or difference of their chromosomes. The vast majority are not intersex.

Biological sex in mammals is binary (M/F). With all our advancements in genetics/medicine we currently have no way to change an individual's biological sex.

So why does this matter?
Because Medicine.

So, let's talk about sex.

A short thread.

What happens in Moldova does not apply to the rest of the world. Here is General Recommendation 28: gender identity as it pertains to WOMEN as "different to men"

18. Intersectionality is a basic concept for understanding the scope of the general obligations of States parties contained in article 2. The discrimination of women based on sex and gender is inextricably linked with other factors that affect women, such as race, ethnicity, religion or belief, health, status, class, caste and sexual orientation and gender identity. Discrimination on the basis of sex or gender may affect women belonging to such groups to a different degree or in different ways to men. States parties must legally recognize such intersecting forms of discrimination and their compounded negative impact on the women concerned and prohibit them. They must also adopt and pursue policies and programmes designed to eliminate such occurrences, including, where appropriate, temporary special measures in accordance with article 4, paragraph 1, of the Convention and general recommendation No. 25.

The only way a man can get rid of a healthy genitals is to say that he is convinced that he is a woman. Then another man will remove them and gladly. In order to justify sex-change surgery a new disorder called, gender dysphoria has come into being. The disease has no biological marker. Its presence is discerned by a history of inappropriately gendered behaviour, social disability and affective disorder.

Governments that consent to a very few women have learned to recognize as women men who believe that they are women and have had themselves castrated in order to procure it because they see women not as another sex but as a non-sex. So-called sex-change has never begged for a uterus-and-ovaries transplant. If uterus-and-ovaries transplants were made mandatory for wannabe women they would disappear overnight. The wannabes do not wannabe women because women be accepted as women is the institutional expression of the mistaken conviction that women are defective males. The biological truth is the opposite: all biologists know that males are defective females. Though external genitalia are the expression of the chromosomal defect, their removal will not alter the chromosomal defect any more than removal of the tail of a rapper will produce a talkless mouse. 'Sex-change operations' can only be carried out in Sci-Fi hospitals. As Dwight D. Billings and Robert Urban argued in 1982:

> Transsexualism is a relational process sustained in medical practice and marketed in public testimony. The legitimation, rationalization and commodification of sex-change operations have produced an identity category 'transsexual' like a diverse group of sexual deviants and victims of severe gender role distress.

As sufferers from gender role distress themselves, women must sympathize with transsexuals but a feminist must argue that the treatment for gender role distress is not mutilation of the sufferer but radical change of gender roles. Throughout their history women who could not carry out their prescribed gender role have suffered all kinds of ghastly gynaecological procedures and, like transsexuals, they have been grateful to their abusers. Women could hardly now condemn the elaborate fantasies practised on male bodies of both sexes even though the victims argue that such interventions are their right.

Sex-change surgery is profoundly conservative in that it reinforces simply constituting gender roles by shaping individuals to fit them.

At one time we asked women if they recognized sex-change males as belonging to their sex. We considered whether being obliged to accept MTF transsexuals as women would all damaging to their identity as sex-subjects. As far as we could tell, women did not mind calling sex-change males 'she'. Perhaps this development should not be much resented, because it was part of the fetishism of the female as other, as simply the sex-male. Femaleness is not the other side of the Rorschach blot of maleness but a sex of its own, with a sexuality of its own and a whole spectrum of possible expressions, many of which take no account of maleness at all. Woman is not placed on earth for the use of men any more than men are placed on earth for the use of women. Both could do without such sillyness if it were not for the geeky business of sexual reproduction.

A good-hearted woman is not supposed to mind that her sex is the catch-all for all cases of gender ambiguity, but her tolerance of spurious loneliness, her consent to steal as if it is the same as her own gender identity weakens her claims to have a sex of her own and tacitly supports the Freudian stereotype of women as incomplete beings defined by their lack of a penis. Women's lack of choosiness about who may be called a woman strengthens the impression that [illegible]

I see a lot of good women on Twitter sharing data or patiently explaining or revealing painful experiences to show consequences. It's pointless because, as you say, the problem is that they just. Don't. Care

I find it reprehensible that women are constantly put in the position of having to repeatedly share trauma to defend our positions, which is routinely ignored, diminished or dismissed. How about just treating us like human beings?

Daniela Conte @danielaconte · 4 Min

Hard agree. I wonder if we should change our approach. We should stop explaining and simply ask more questions, like 'why are you a rape apologist?'

'Why do you support the removal of women's hard-won rights?'

'What exactly is your problem with safeguarding children?'

It is so confronting to see women calmly and candidly sharing endless testimonies of many different types of trauma, to no avail. You are right - we need to attack, put them on the spot, rather than always politely asserting and defending.

I don't think asking these questions will help, since they don't give a damn. They are putting out a narrative that men are victims and women are evil feminazi abusers on purpose. Best we can do is to refuse to back down. The facts are obvious to any who are willing to look.

Absolutely.

Do we need transphobes and their weird "fertility" obsession anywhere near that conversation?

MANY WOMEN, I THINK, RESIST FEMINISM BECAUSE IT IS AN AGONY TO BE FULLY CONSCIOUS OF THE BRUTAL MISOGYNY WHICH PERMEATES CULTURE, SOCIETY, AND ALL PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS.

One of the worst part of being a feminist, is to have to look at men's depravity.
The rapes, the violence, the degrading fantasies, the hatred, the playacting.
That's why many women choose not to be feminists.
It is like torture.

Don't expect logic from that lot. .according to them I'm not a male as I have a DSD I'm a magical unicorn that is neither male or felmale

Yeah that's fine but don't you dare misgender someone. Telling me I'm not my own sex is fine though.

Way to go shitting on us ot.

You have to see the shit these people pull on us people with DSDs (intersex. .hate that term. DSD isn't much better but is more accurate).

But fuck it they are hell bent on dragging us into their bollocks

We are not an identity or a sexuality. we just have DSDs.

That is a point I am constantly refuting in this debate - that DSDs are a condition of either the male or female sex, not a magical third sex, and people with congenital medical conditions resent being exploited to support an ideology. It is completely disrespectful.

"Gender" is not defined in Australian law. "Gender identity" is as per the Yogyakarta Principles (Sex Discrim Act 1984 s 4) > gender identity means the gender-related identity, appearance or mannerisms or other gender-related characteristics of a person (whether by way of medical intervention or not), with or without regard to the person's designated sex at birth.

We can't discriminate on the basis of gender identity under s5B. Which makes it really confusing when s5 says the exact same thing about SEX. But apparently there is no conflict? 🤔 Further to this....

SEX DISCRIMINATION ACT 1984 - SECT 5B

Discrimination on the ground of gender identity

(1) For the purposes of this Act, a person (the discriminator) discriminates against another person (the aggrieved person) on the ground of the aggrieved person's gender identity if, by reason of:

(a) the aggrieved person's gender identity; or

(b) a characteristic that appertains generally to persons who have the same gender identity as the aggrieved person; or

(c) a characteristic that is generally imputed to persons who have the same gender identity as the aggrieved person, the discriminator treats the aggrieved person less favourably than, in circumstances that are the same or are not materially different, the discriminator treats or would treat a person who has a different gender identity.

(2) For the purposes of this Act, a person (the discriminator) discriminates against another person (the aggrieved person) on the ground of the aggrieved person's gender identity if the discriminator imposes, or proposes to impose, a condition, requirement or practice that has, or is likely to have, the effect of disadvantaging persons who have the same gender identity as the aggrieved person.

"I have an affection to a person of more than one gender and you can be dragged in front of a Tribunal if you don't affirm or support me. If this causes me "harm" you can go to jail for 5 years" - that will be VIC law should it get passed in Feb. I wish I was joking.

When I was young and foolish, I said that males, especially heterosexual males, would not just call themselves "female" and be not only accepted but also celebrated for being the opposite sex, that is, "female," through gender identity. But now, the new misogyny is like before

No, a biological male attracted to females is a heterosexual male, whatever he "identifies as". And no, we are not going to just let any bloke into women spaces upon his demand. Women have sex-specific spaces for very good reason & we shouldn't have to continually explain this.

It is so foolish to pretend sex doesn't matter, particularly for medical care. If you did not treat a patient on the basis of their sex they would get sub-optimal care & HCPs could be liable for medical malpractice.

Remarkable that in the analysis of Labour's significant loss, by themselves & media pundits, no one mentioned a substantial reason for mass exodus of Labour voters from the party was due to their obstinate adherence to gender ideology & wilful refusal to acknowledge "woman".

This response is very interesting and similar in approach to other ideologies that also try to dodge criticism. A thought isn't spared for women in Universities that feel unsafe by the way

> However, academics such as Tam Blaxter, a historical linguist at Cambridge University, who is a trans woman, say these arguments make trans staff and students feel vulnerable. "Universities are communities of staff and students first and foremost," she says. "They will always have a function of discussing difficult issues, but making minority members feel safe and welcomed must come first."

This response is very interesting and similar in approach to other ideologies that also try to dodge criticism. A thought isn't spared for women in universities that feel unsafe by the way

Looking for an update on a BCHRT case & came across a 2020 divorce ruling a mother ordered to call the other person "Momma" to their children after 16 years of marriage. Cited as possible estrangement of the children is the mother referring to "Momma" as "Father" or "Daddy"

What a disaster in the making!

@LouiseStaley can you find out who sat on the Unintended Consequences Committee and who, if anyone, documented the negative impacts upon women and children of the propsed FVA amendment? Gaslighting IS abuse and the government is mandating it?'

In what way did I "lie" about the criminal sanctions? Our position is not "ideological", it is not a belief system - it is based on material, observable, measurable, objective facts. Gender ideology ideology is based on unevidenced theory and feelings.

The egregious lack of follow up should be a red flag, the lack of any data on long term outcomes is simply not normal medical practice.

I completely understand that a distressed patient would not seek further treatment from the medical practitioners who did them harm in the first place. The egregious lack of follow up is a red flag, the lack of any data on long term outcomes is simply not normal medical practice.

Question: what is the morally relevant difference between including trans women in women's sport, and including trans-abled athletes in para-sport?

28 73 426

Molly Gardner @Mgardner2000 2h

Arguably, it is biologically possible to become disabled, but it is not biologically possible to completely change sex (although you can get very close). So if a trans-abled athlete makes the transition (if they have a limb removed, for example) then para category is fair

No one "gets close" to changing sex, using cosmetic surgery to alter outward appearance, affecting and performing opposite sex stereotypes, and injecting synthetic opposite sex hormones doesn't "change" a person's sex in any way.

The qualitative research including trans athletes as participants suggests that trans athletes would not compete if they did not think it was fair to do so (Harper 2015a, 2015b; Klein, Krane, and Paule-Koba 2018; Teetzel 2017a). While this view might be considered naive given the extent of the external rewards available through sport success, it is consistent with the historical and sociological literature that suggests we do not need to fear 'imposters' masquerading as women for the purpose of athletic success (Pieper 2016;

A win for women and for common sense. Sex remains on the UK census. A further option for gender or trans identity is available. Plenty of time to decide on which of the 100+ options you'd like to identify as on the day!

It depends if you take the statement as "never happening" as absolute or as a common term to mean it very rarely happens to be as if it never happens- the question is such rare examples be used as a Reason to restrict the activities of all trans/transsexual people ?

Doesn't matter. The Stonewall definition includes pretty much everyone now, and in legislation in some jurisdictions it's simply if you are "thinking" about it. Acceptance without exception, remember!? They are trans if they say they are.

You are deliberately obfuscating the issue. Dr. Wolf said "this never happens", whether it happens rarely or frequently is immaterial. It happens (and is not uncommon). The women & girls harmed by that should not just be accepted as collateral damage.

Women are entitled to sex specific spaces when they are vulnerable. Men, no matter what their identity, are not entitled to be in there. If you are a man in a woman's toilet, I don't care what their identity is, they are transgressing women's boundaries.

It depends if you take the statement as "never happening" as absolute or as a common term to mean it very rarely happens to be as if it never happens. the question is such rare examples be used as a Reason to restrict the activities of all trans/transsexual people ?

They literally are not.

We have legal rights based on equality law - the notion that your rights do not depend upon your sex (or race, or age, or religion, or).

Your equality rights cannot be "taken away" by extending them to others. That makes no sense at all.

We have legal rights that do depend upon membership to an observable, objective category - such as sex, age or race. And yes, if a group has rights based on this category, particularly in relation to discrimination, they are being “taken away” (rendered meaningless)....

I do care about women's rights, as a sexual assault survivor and as a queer disabled woman, but if you think what makes a woman (and our rights) can be reduced down to vaginas or uteruses or XX chromosomes, than you're more like the men you're claiming to fight against.

Until this generation of girls that are currently libfem grows up and/or have their own daughters. Then maybe we get a big pushback. Until you're 20, you just wanna be cool, hyper-tolerant & not insult anyone.
But that is not how the world works.

PS: still meet people who don't understand what the word patriarchy means and/or claim that it doesn't exist. And even when you try explain and provide examples, they deny it (both men and women). Go figure. 🤡

Using hyperbolic words likes "segregation" is unhelpful. Its one thing if a person knows it is a mixed sex division and accepts that, it's quite another for a man or boy to declare an identity and then compete in a female division.

We don't need to "run a multi-variate regression" to know biological males have an advantage over females, and this translates to issues around safety, fair competition and inclusivity for women. It is completely disingenuous to claim otherwise.

There are naturally muscular women who are stronger than men, this is a huge grey zone in a tunnel with no light at the end

Okay, so let's take everything you said at face value. You don't want women to play rugby with trans women for risk of serious injury. Yes?

The standard is men go with men and women with women.

Performatively Woke @JaQuzzieJones 56 Min

When two players compete and a disparity in performance exists, such that it meets that threshold, injury is liable to occur

And, again, men and women is the baseline criteria you gave. So logically, if a man performs worse than a woman, they're prohibited from competing

This is because the disparity in performance is greater than the disparity between the baseline threshold set by a baseline man and baseline woman.

It's either that or the woman can't compete with the other women for the same reason.

Performatively Woke @LaQuzzleJones · 53 Min

Women's sports should exclude men because it is a closed category. For men to simply "identify as" the female category on a self-declaration puts women at elevated risk of serious injury, goes against the principle of fair competition and excludes women from their own category.

Okay, so et's take everything you said at face value. You don't want women to play rugby with trans women for risk of serious njury Yes?

The standard is men go with men and women with women.

Performatively Woke @JaQuzziJones 1h

When two players compete and a disparity in performance exists, such that it meets that threshold, injury is liable to occur

And, aga n, men and women s the baseline criteria you gave So logically, if a man performs worse than a woman, they're prohibited from competing

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 27m

Division on the basis of sex is not a "threshold" The sex categories of male and fema e are distinct, observable and objective.

C aiming opposite treatments are actually like-for-like because they both count as undergoing HRT is dishonest.

I don't know what you mean by like for like Anyway, the end goal is to distinguish whether or not post-op trans people can go from having generally superior performances to meeting the expected thresholds set out in transexclusionary competitions

The sole concern terfs have is whether or not post-HRT, trans women are just at the bottom threshold of some hypothetical bounds that men lie within or whether they can breach into the bounds for women

It proves it's a construction as much having to consciously choose to disregard intersex as an alternative mode of "being" or having to knowingly declare it as a genetic abnormality is an aspect of social construction

So, a mutation is a facet of healthy society or a burden.

WobbleWobble @PaulAnd15035669 30 m n

Ok. how many other sexes are there and what are they called

Performatively Woke @vaQuzzlebones 19 m n

Dunno, there's male and female and every intersex variant.

Fr just explain how you know whether to address XXY as male or female and you'll prove it's inherently binary.

XXY male

Alex @AlexAnct 16 m n

Now hold up, there is a XXY female but it's extremely rare. Plus there's usually no SRY, or a broken SRY involved. However this female ALWAYS has ovaries, never ovotestis or internal testicles.

Like I said, give me an actual condition and I can easily break it down for you I've tested the five factors against every case study on every known intersex condition to date and it has always checked out and came to either a male or female result. No inbetween, no both.

Performatively Woke @LaQuzzJones · 7 Mn

No, dw, actually breaking it down is unimportant. The fact it's definitive with a best 3/5 thing is as sufficient as any classification.

Again. I initially just brought it up because I felt the ontology of categories was necessary to explain why GD is a product of society

Alex @AlexAnct · 4 Mn

GD? Gender Dysphoria? I didn't come here to talk about gender, I came here because of the tokenizing of intersex issues and how the issues involving intersex and being transgender are two separate matters

The harm imposed by erasing an intersex person's sex is why I'm here

Category, but there's an emphasis on sexual reproduction which is why we later construct these criterias because of the major emphasis

Personally, I feel referencing intersex in context of the absence of male/female characteristics to sound demotivating, but it's up to you

Alex @AlexAnct 9 Min

Given sex's point is all around sexual reproduction A body can support one of two gametes and the majority of bodies naturally can produce one of the two gametes, never both and they can't ever change which gamete they produce. Why is this? Because sex determination

Performatively Woke @vaQuzzicones 2 Min

You're justifying the category because the underlying association behind the current distinction emphasized it for you.

That doesn't inherently give merit to the category. It could very easily have emphasized any other aspect and even came up with non-binary outcomes.

Which characteristics, how will you judge potent a , how often do they need to be measured, how are you avoid ng sand bagg ng f the measurements? Unless you can demonstrate a workable method rather than just a hypothetical word salad then it's meaningless.

Ross Tucker @Scienceofsport 6 M n

Even f th s unicorn algorithm worked, it would write women out of sport because for any chosen matched characterist c (or mult ple), males have athletic advantages for strength power, speed etc, so the entry into the categories will be male dom nated. And if that's considered

Ross Tucker @Scienceofsport 5 M n

'fine or "too bad", then I'd wonder what people have against women to want to purge them from sport Th s unicorn algorithm will enable mediocre men to beat the best women in history n Category E or F (which nobody would watch anyway), which seems heavily discrim natory to me

Ross Tucker @Scienceofsport 3 M n

It means that e ite sport would be accessible to say 5% of men, and 0.00001% of women (if that It ll be zero unt r you get down to much lower categories or blocs). So the only way to justify this is if you don't care about women.

Yeah, I misgauged just how much the average sex dysphoric person feels traumatized on account of infertility or otherwise not being an "ideal sex"

Turns out some are fine with just various coping methods. Oh well.

For the record, not all intersex people are infertile, very few are dysphoric in any way, and infertility is irrelevant to the two sex classes. After all, we know what sex children are before puberty

FOIs to the gender clinics in Australia (we have several in the public health system around the country so info can be made public) have disclosed none of 1000s of child patients referred to the clinics for interventions (I won't use the word treatment here) are intersex.

It has been 10 days since editors in Australian media proudly declared their misogyny by using a slur towards women & gleefully admitted that they won't report the truth

They're happy to retweet me when calling me a TERF but have conveniently ignored my letter to the media.

What is the long term plan of the 3rd wave feminists? So if they succeed in centring transwomen in feminism, normalise 'sex work is work' so half our daughters are on OnlyFans, and women's sport is full of male 'women', then what? Utopia will just appear, like magic?

Genuine question, btw. Presumably they've thought about this and have an answer? Can anyone steelman their argument so I can understand where they're coming from? It just seems incredibly stupid, bordering on insane, to me. How do they think this is possibly going to work?

I think the idea is that we will all be more free and the world will be more equitable if everyone gets to pick from an array of gender identities at will, rather than existing in the category 'man' or 'woman' based on the way one's body has developed

I heard an American woman say THIS WEEK that all British children have to go to boarding school

Most Americans think that. We never ever see British kids in films or books who live with their parents. The only ones I can think of were in Mary Poppins & that was made 60 yrs ago

I'm afraid it's seen as, well, kind of abusive, really, here. Sending 8- or 11 yr-olds away from their parents to live is shocking to most of the world, actually

But there is a boarding school here in Maine where some of the richest families in the US send their kids at 14/15

Why would/don't you? If it something you believe in what is the logic in saying, well I believed in what this person is doing, but they said something I don't agree with, therefore I'm not donating ever again?

This is what the critical theorist side do, they expect everyone to acquiesce to the orthodoxy without question. We must be able to focus on the main goal without letting minor disagreements derail us

I'm not a CT. I've been politically active since I was 15. I've worked in messy coalitions on global campaigns, run fractious volunteer groups. Nobody is indispensable. PP is a PR disaster. We don't change opinion of those on the Left, who are our key target, with her tactics

She has done incredible work in raising awareness of this issue, which transcends party politics. She is entitled to her opinion and to say what she wants, she is not accountable to you, or anyone else, for this. I fully support her efforts.

I also suggest you listen to the youtube recording of her side of what happened at Heritage Foundation, and also watch the videos of the altercation with BLM where the women were clearly intimidated. It's not wise to say inflammatory things about others or situations..

Kellie-Jay is constantly smeared on baseless accusations, people should listen to what she has said herself (along with others who were there), view the footage, make up their own minds instead of simply repeating what everyone else repeats as if it is fact.

As a father of 3 daughters & the husband to a former collegiate athlete, this hits home in a special way 💔 It's time to create a separate transgender category in competition!

Also think it's time for me to start a podcast bcuz some things need to be discussed in detail 💯#respect

Many Americans equate socialism with communism, they don't understand the nuance, but when you look at socialist countries with representative democracies - Scandinavia, Canada, Western Europe, NZ, Australia, we are the ones with the highest standards of living.

The protections are now extended to “gender identity”, meaning a man or boy who declares a gender identity can assume those protections for himself - accessing resources, space, scholarships for females, rendering the entire point of the legislation meaningless.

Weren't we all drilled about STDs? Wasn't everyone still terrified about sex post-AIDS crisis and used more condoms than they are now? That's how I remember it anyway.

The protections are now extended to "gender identity" meaning a man or boy who declares a gender identity can assume those protections for himself accessing resources, space, scholarships for females, rendering the entire point of the legislation meaningless

So if you had the world you wanted, would this include genitalia checks at bathrooms?

Scott G @scttfrnks 2 Std

No. If I had the world I wanted, people would simply acknowledge that youth transition, puberty blockers, protections for women's sports and spaces, etc., are legitimate concerns, worthy of serious conversation.

Sith Lord Humperdink (he/him) #BLM 1312 @pawmo15 1 Std

Those conversations already exist are happening, have happened, and a number of those issues already worked out. It's just that transphobic people don't like the answers that came from those conversations. Sort of like anti-vaxxers

The #NoDebate tactic sure failed then, didn't it? Calling people "transphobic" isn't working anymore either, especially as it is used against anyone who simply questions or disagrees with gender ideology.

Women are not a shield. Please provide evidence to show that male pattern criminality evaporates upon a male declaring a trans identity.

Interesting that I've not come across a single TERF who isn't white. Have you?

I wonder if this is because women of colour understand intersectionality?

One of the weirder arguments TERFs run is that the term "TERF" is a slur. It's basically an unnecessarily flattering - though nonetheless fairly precise recitation of their beliefs. Trans-Exclusionary Radical Feminist.

"Bigoted dickhead" is also fairly precise

FairCop was a high profile case where the police where heavily admonished for doing exactly what you are doing Tim. Perhaps you're not on the "right side of history" as you think.

259 Mr Auburn and Mr Ustych both sought to play down the police's actions. They said that there had been no interference with the Claimant's free expression rights or, if there had, it was at a trivial level. In my judgment these submissions impermissibly minimise what occurred and do not properly reflect the value of free speech in a democracy. There was not a shred of evidence that the Claimant was in risk of committing a criminal offence. The effect of the police turning up at his place of work because of his political opinions must not be underestimated. To do so would be to undervalue a cardinal democratic freedom. In this country we have never had a Cheka, a Gestapo or a Stasi. We have never lived in an Orwellian society.

No. Women in Australia and globally have human rights on the basis of our sex under CEDAW, which is also incorporated into our federal legislation. Human rights are not "zero sum". And why should we sacrifice our rights to let in a bunch of men making demands?

Post alert. This morning an article went up which redirected back to our website in relation to a single lady post. This article was actually written by a woman, who Bathurst Real Estate outsource our blog posts to and we were unaware that this post had gone live on our website, we had it removed from our website as soon as it was bought to our attention. We apologise for any offence or upset that this article has caused and this is certainly no reflection on the personal views of any of the team at Bathurst Real Estate.

then you have no choice but to accept trans rights are an infringement on women's rights.

Otherwise, why are people so terrified of women talking about their rights.

Tim Baxter @timnotmate 1 Std

Yes, you can logic away human dignity if you twist your brain in knots.

Catherine Karena @cakarena 13 Min

Here's the logic, women are also human, so there concerns also matter? Bit too complicated for you? Does it need to be simplified further?

Disgraceful that a person with a high profile in the scientific community refers to women as "bigoted dickheads" for wanting to discuss our rights. It's not a good look @climatecouncil

Co nselling s usually recommended especially prior to any surgery both for children and for adults with gender dysphoria.

Gender confirmation surgery usually involves several operat ons

For people born as males, surgery can involve removing the penis and testicles and sometimes the prostate gland T sue from the penis is used to make a vag na and nerves will have sensat on The lips around the vagina the labia can be reshaped or enlarged from the scrotum T e clitoris can also be made The urethra is shortened After surgery the person uses a vaginal dilator to keep the vagina open

Many people also have surgery to make them look more fem nine for example breast implants or cosmetic surgery to change their lips eyes nose or Adam's apple

The Therapeutic Goods Adm nistration (TGA) continues to review and assess breast implants available in the Australian market.

In September 20 9 the TGA decided to recall and suspend a number of breast implants and tissue expander devices as well as breast implant associated anaplastic large cell lymphoma For more details see the TGA website and here Current information on the recall and risks can be found here

Important initiative As World Rugby shows, once you get past 'no debate' and 'TWAW', and start to look at biological reality you rapidly find that males can't be included safely and fairly in female sports. (Who'd a thunk it?) So the right strategy is to force engagement.

They need to stop referring to these boys and men as “transgirls” and “transwomen”, they are males who declare a trans and/gender identity and are now demanding inclusion in female sports. Words matter.

Absolutely. It's one of the key reasons that "TW are women" is used so often - it allows them to argue that women are being excluded from women's sports. Vital that media and sport governing bodies push back and define their terms clearly

In my jurisdiction of Australia, it's not discriminatory, we have protection at state, federal & international treaty level where males can be lawfully excluded from female sports. But our institutions are conveniently ignoring those protections & promulgate "inclusive" policies

Sex is important with neonates, my twins were premature and I came to learn in NICU that female infants have better survival rates than male infants for a variety of reasons, so the care provided needed to take sex into consideration.

You can't interrupt puberty and then expect that you stop PBs and things resume "as normal" that is factually untrue The Bell decision demonstrates 98% of children progress from PB to CSH, it's an almost inevitable outcome You can't have "a puberty" with their gender identity study reported by Barlow, Reynolds, and Agras (1973), all attempts to reverse the gender identity of adolescent and adult transsexuals have failed (Baker, 1969; Baker and Green, 1970; Benjamin, 1969; Green, 1974, Green and Money, 1969; Pauly, 1969; Randell, 1970).

Are you seriously suggesting that data from the 60s and 70s is relevant to what is going on nearly half a century later? A quick search on Rekers demonstrates his research is pretty bloody questionable - a known proponent of gay conversion therapy? en.wikipedia.org/wiki/George_Re

I'm making the point that this has been known since the 1960s

Not ECT, not shocks (one study trans people were shocked 400+ times), not drugs, not psychotherapy, not behavioural therapy - will work.

Stop sensationalising. No one does that anymore, there is also precisely zero evidence it was done for gender identity, it was done to gays and lesbians. Times have changed Lisa, the population claiming "trans" now is nothing like that of half a century and 2 generations ago.

The word "t*rf" has moved on from being a descriptive term. It is a slur and it says far more about the person who insists on using it, than the person it is directed to. Justice Julian Knowles in the UK High Court FairCop Hearing said:

> 245 I understand that 'TERF' is an acronym for 'trans-exclusionary radical feminist'. It is used to describe feminists who express ideas that other feminists consider transphobic such as the claim that trans women are not women, opposition to transgender rights and exclusion of trans women from women's spaces and organisations. It can be a pejorative term.

How can he speak for his daughter's identity?

Do you agree with him that trans kids just need more gender "affirming" talks from their fathers?

She didn't say "I'm really a boy in a girl's body" she said "I don't want to be a girl" Two different things altogether And I think any kid who expresses that thought needs further conversation to unpack what they mean and what their actual problem is.

My four year old has told me twice she "wants to be a boy", I asked her why "because I don't want to have babies". If I was "woke" we'd likely be off to the gender clinic instead of telling her that she doesn't have to have babies if she doesn't want to.

It's so ridiculous - "unsafe" and "disrepute". Particularly when everyone pretty much agrees with us on gender identity once they know what is going on. This can't continue like this forever.

But the image of prison for unethical practices that very few people would imagine to be current — the govt has given no credible evidence of a problem today involving health professionals — may have forced many people to do a deep dive into self-ID, gender & puberty blockers

Explanatory notes for the bill use the word "torture" six times, but at a public briefing last month Queensland Health's director-general John Wakefield admitted data on conversion therapy in Australia was by its nature "very scant" although he cited the 2018 La Trobe report as the "most detailed work"

That report, co-authored by the Human Rights Law Centre, focuses mainly on religious "gay conversion" stories, going back as far as the 1980s, as told by 15 interviewees recruited through social media, newspapers and LGBTI networks. Only two of them were transgender, one was non-binary and none was under 18.

The report admits: "Without further research, it remains unclear where and to what extent trans conversion therapy is actually promoted and practised in Australia."

The affirmative model claims children are "experts" in the "inner truth" of their gender identity and promotes hormone treatment, and sometimes under-18s surgery, such as a double mastectomy. Families say they are offered a simple choice between "life-saving" affirmative care and suicide risk.

What "statistics" and "history" you mean the entirety of the history of women's sports compared to men's sports? Everybody knows males have a biological advantage the evidence is everywhere

There are multiple trans athletes in both men and women's sports. How many matches have they and their teams won? How has their performance changed? Do they actually, consistently, beat the cis women they compete against?

Thank you @RitaPanahi for giving @salltweets a platform on @SkyNewsAust - the media has largely engaged in overt censorship of women who refuse to acquiesce to gender identity ideology. Those of us who dare speak up are viciously attacked. Women are Adult Human Females.

Do you agree with the international experts on trans healthcare for adults and children? Were you horrified when the UK courts overruled the experts for trans kid healthcare?

If the available evidence was robust, compelling & unequivocal, that ruling wouldn't have happened.

Lol that isn't how science works is it. Do you want experts in charge or not?

That's also not how the ruling worked as they ruled against consent as, you know, it was an anti-abortion lawyer attacking Gillick Competence. They didn't rule against the evidence for the treatment

Because that wasn't the point of the decision, it was whether children could consent to that particular course of medical intervention. Upon review of evidence, a panel of 3 UKHC judges, incl President of Queen's Bench, declared they could not.

against feminism and a porn-saturated online culture, I believe things have got significantly worse for girls. Never have I seen women denigrated and dehumanised to the extent they are now. From the leader of the free world's long history of sexual assault accusations and his proud boast of 'grabbing them by the pussy', to the incel ('involuntarily celibate') movement that rages against women who won't give them sex, to the trans activists who declare that TERFs need punching and re-educating, men across the political spectrum seem to agree: women are asking for trouble. Everywhere, women are being told to shut up and sit down, or else."

By including "gender identity" as a category alongside to "sex", sex-based protections are rendered meaningless. The lack of critical thinking ability of TRAs, along with general ignorance of the law and history and women's rights, is always patently obvious.

Are you aware that there is an entire movement against men's unfettered sexual access to women? Andrea Dworkin, Sheila Jeffreys etc have been writing about this for decades. Liberal feminism is continuing to uphold the pro-porn, pro-prostitution, "pro-sex" narrative. We need

2/ We often hear it claimed that there's no such thing as a crisis in academic freedom, cancel culture is a myth, etc. This paper demonstrates that there's a serious problem with academic freedom regarding the ability to discuss sex, gender and gender identity

Professor Alice Sullivan @ProfA_ceS 14s
3/ The problem is fundamental and far-reaching - inevitably so, given that sex is a vital concept across the human and social sciences and the humanities. Gender identity extremists are succeeding in making it difficult for academics to talk about and collect data on sex.

Professor Alice Sullivan @ProfA_ceS 13s
4/ The suppression of academic freedom is often discussed as though it was all about no-platforming. No-platforming is a disturbing symptom, but it is not the disease. It reflects a chilling climate, which also leads to the suppression of research, and constraints on discussion.

Why is t always internalised misogyny and not a difference of view point? Binary think ng is what has made this a debate about gender rather than murder & violence So when is it a good time to discuss women's violence aga.nst men or ndeed against other women and children

This horrendous crime is not for you to use to demonise 'men' or women that disagree with this a.arm st fear mongering It's vulgar that the fam ly including Sarah s father & partner have been dismissed so you can centre women' Disgusting co opting of a tragedy

It's the same thing that you always do. It's disingenuous and dishonourable and it does no one any good, least of all the family of the dead woman. So say it again or say it louder as you please, the result is the same

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 4h

You keep doing the same thing. It's like talking to a stuck record. It's one woman and one man, not 'male violence'. Same as the counter example. One woman, one woman. Not Female Violence

Is it though? Because from the experiences people are sharing with each other, it's actually thousands of women who've been fondled on transport or at a bar, thousands who have had a car slow down on an empty road to 'offer a lift', thousands who have fled a stranger on a street

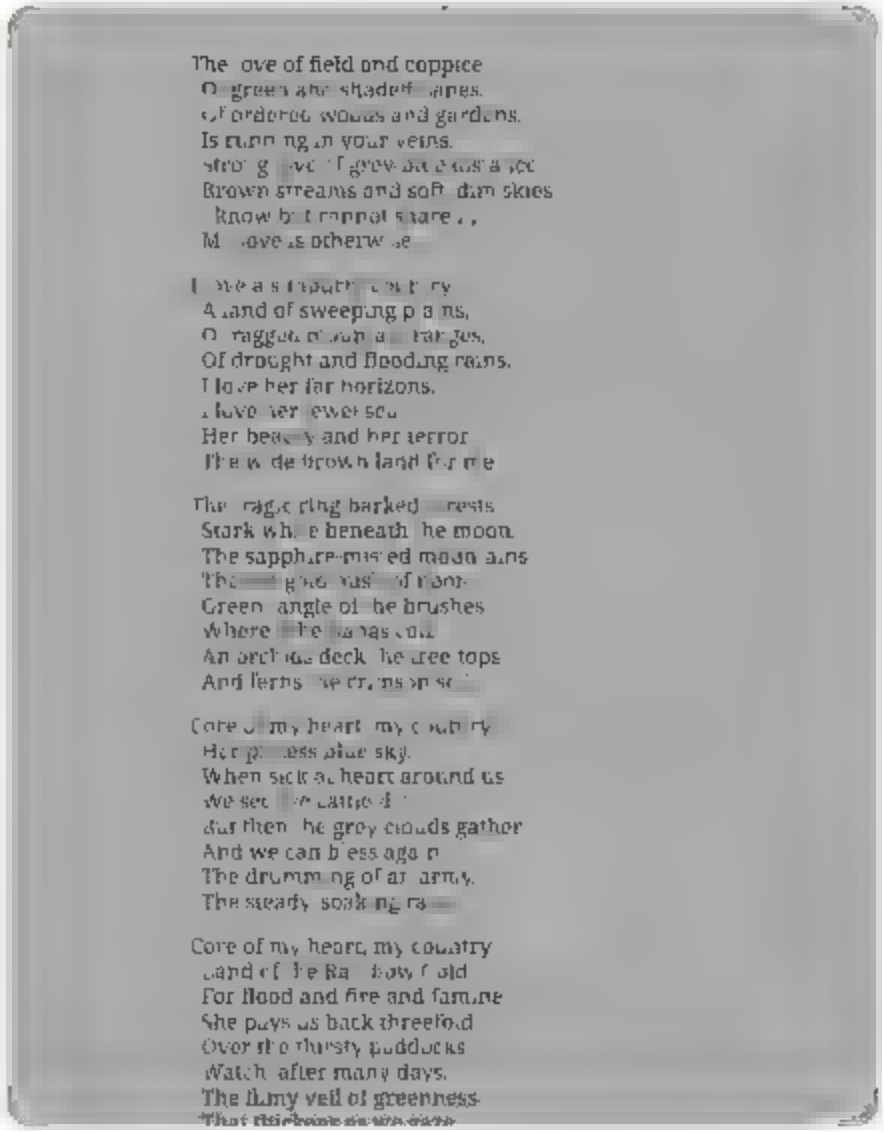
This is my favourite poem: My Country by Dorothea Mackellar



The love of field and coppice
Of green and shadeful slopes,
Of cultured woods and gardens,
Is running in your veins.
Strong love of grey-blue distance
Brown streams and soft dim skies
I know but cannot share,
My love is otherwise.

I love a sunburnt country
A land of sweeping plains,
Of ragged mountain ranges,
Of drought and flooding rains.
I love her far horizons,
I love her jewel-sea,
Her beauty and her terror
The wide brown land for me.

The stockman's hut,
Stark white beneath the moon,
The sapphire-misted mountains,
The opal-hazy plain,
Green tangle of the brushes
Where lyrebirds flash and call,
An orchid-decked tree-top,
And ferns in every gully.

Core of my heart, my country,
Her purple-shadowed plain,
When sick at heart around us
We see her coastline fair,
And then the grey clouds gather
And we can bless again
The drumming of an army,
The steady soaking rain.

Core of my heart, my country,
Land of the Rainbow Gold,
For flood and fire and famine
She pays us back threefold.
Over the thirsty paddocks
Watch, after many days,
The dusty veil of greenness
That thickens as we gaze.

The commodtisation of women is a "failure of the middle class dream"? What does that even mean? Women and girls have been treated as chattels and exploited for millenia. We finally made some progress last century, yet are now going backwards, and it astonished me that liberal feminists cannot see the damage they are doing by promoting porn, prostitution and the commoditisation of women, essentially upholding patriarchy. And yes we are ALL aware that misogyny and MVAW disproportionately affects poor and disadvantaged women.

The women who freely choose, usually have genuine alternatives (ie Samantha X) comprise of a vanishingly small percentage of prostituted women - the vast majority are groomed, coerced or threatened into it. CSE is a pathway to prostitution, how could that be a choice?

One of my dearest wishes is that my daughters go to Uni to have the “college experience” and hopefully enjoy a “year abroad” somewhere - but how can I, in good faith, entrust them to institutions that actively fail them by manipulating them into thinking sex work is a “choice”?

Gendered language is not bigoted

Saying that gendered language is bigoted suggests that requesting or enforcing the use of he/him & she/her is a form of bigotry 🤦‍♀️

Being able to use language, words agreed upon by the vast majority of society, is not bigotry. It's common sense.

I wonder why someone who has celebrated a young woman's death, wished women to die in a grease fire, has managed to alienate their entire academic dept. and whose self-described "life partner" has been arrested for child sex offences has been sacked. IS COMPLETE MYSTERY

Just 2 years after they were given tenure by a US university (which means an employee has to be extraordinarily bad at their job to be sacked), it looks like Rachel McKinnon / Veronica Ivy has been sacked.

"Gender" is not defined in Commonwealth law, so I'd say that makes it a bit tricky! Unless it's a polite euphemism for sex...but I think we can all see that is not the case with the push to replace "sex" with "gender identity" in legislation and policy.

Chase needs to realise no one is banning men or boys who self-declare a trans identity from playing sport, they are being excluded from the female category, they can play in their biological category - No one has the right to play in any sports category of their choice.

Happy that society has finally "progressed" to the point that we are required to pretend to be confused by things that we actually understand well so we can fabricate "problems" that are "solved" by letting men transgress women's boundaries.

I'm not sure if "gender fluidity" is the right term, my personal preference is "gender identity ideology", so I wonder what the reasoning was? Perhaps to avoid conflict with SDA s5B? "Human gender" is also weird. It's not the definitions I would have used.

Schedule 1 Amendment of Education Act 1990 No 8

[1] Section 3(1) Definitions

Insert after the definition of government school

gender fluidity means a belief there is a difference between biological sex (including people who are, by their chromosomes, male or female but are born with disorders of sexual differentiation) and human gender and that human gender is socially constructed rather being equivalent to a person's biological sex

I know concerns have been raised that this could extend to ordinary sex education and human relationships curriculum. We have open conversations in my home, but I know some families do not, so those kids could miss out on any education in those areas.

In fact girls' schools sometimes go even further with this stuff because of the tendency for social justice campaigns to be female dominated. Girls are often very very earnestly engaged in causes. I know of girls schools in Aus with huge clusters of trans id

SA, CSE etc where judiciary and LPs are trauma informed and properly trained

Nina Vallins @nnavallins 34m

We'd also need the defence trained! A friend saw case in WA recently where defence was shocking, prosecutor didn't object, judge had to tell the defence to tone it down. I think specialist courts are a good idea (see family violence lists in magistrates courts).

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 29m

Yes absolutely, no point doing all that if the defence is going to tear the victim to shreds.

Nina Vallins @nnavallins 22m

We can pass laws to stop this (or parts of like questioning re sexual history) but if prosecutors don't object to defence questioning or judges don't intervene, then defence barristers can traumatise victims. Which is why a victim's lawyer is a great part of Scottish proposal

We need an entirely new Evidence Act to deal with these types of crimes - I always feel like current one is a hangover from coverture and when rape was considered a crime against a man's property. Changes made to protect victims seem like bandaid solutions.

The fact that so many women think words matter more than the rights of females to not suffer permanent loss of sexual function really sickens me.

Jessica Pin @MedCat · 1h

Personally, most abuse I get is from cis women

What bothers me most is not name calling or comments about how I deserve violence.

The biggest problem is when people try to cancel and deplatform me. Mainly women have done this. This robs me of my voice, which is most critical

No. It bans boys and young men with a trans identity from competing in the female sports category. That keeps it fair and safe for girls and young women. The boys and young men are free to compete in their biological sex category.

This is harmful bigotry. Young people suffer harm themselves, get beat up, & sometimes kill themselves precisely because of attitudes like this

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves · 16h

That is irresponsible hyperbole. The UK Samaritans strongly advise against attributing suicide to a single issue, because it is always a complex constellation of problems. Using suicide as a tactic to coerce women into accommodating men, to their detriment, is shameful.

The measure s remedying the problem. yes There are now more women n regulated positions on boards than there were.

Rachel Julia @rachel julia Mar 25

You re now on record mak ng the idiotic cla m that an al male board would be gender balanced if half the males were trans women. That's the extreme version of the remedy having become completely divorced from the problem and the problem being not addressed but disappeared.

7 85 1.0K

Andrew? @ ett st rage Mar 25

1 that's almost impossible, there are very very few trans people willing to go nto pol tics at the moment, probably for good reason
2 would you ca l a board of all men, 50/50 trans and cis balanced?

12 1 13

Rachel Julia @rachel julia Mar 25

Point 1 I don t think s relevant here (because KB has already bitten the bullet on the extreme version, but trans people should be encouraged & supported n politics as all minorities. 2 is very interest ng so thanks for that. There's a sense n which it would be sex-balanced

5 3 131

Is there research showing that discrimination happens on the basis of actual sex rather than perceived sex or gender? Because otherwise it seems that a lot of energy s being poured nto arguing about solving a problem that doesn't exist, at the expense of solving one that does.

That is absolutely ridiculous. 40 women (out of the 300,000+ who gave birth in Aus in 2018) did not "identify as" women. Surely midwives can be trusted to accommodate those mothers-to-be with gender Dysphoria without destroying language that everyone else wants and uses.

I was just speaking to a midwife who was dealing with a trans identified mother and she said it was very difficult trying to educate the person without using words like vagina or uterus. Apparently these would trigger Dysphoria.

I have gd. It's chronic, irrational, distressing and unpleasant. However no one should be this brittle, because ultimately it will render them unable to deal with the world as it is. We all have crosses to bear

Absolutely. I don't foresee in the long run how going along with a false reality would help anyone, it would be a rare person who would not give much to change something significant about themselves or their lives.

I think that is a recurring theme for women with GD, it must be a terrible torment. The vast majority of midwives I have met are dedicated to “woman-centred” care, however the woman presents for assistance and support.

I find it baffling that someone else a medical professional using the word vagina would be triggering but being pregnant, using your uterus, and presumably having become pregnant by vaginal sex, was not.

Yes, though the other thing I'd add is that through 4 pregnancies. I don't think any medic used "uterus" ("womb" is a much kinder word), nor "vagina" even cervix wasn't used. when they induced me they referred to sweeping "the neck of the womb" That was 20-odd years ago

Failing to use correct language could also give rise to issues around informed consent, or even med neg if things are not communicated properly. Will HCPs be put in the position of having to decide which takes precedence - discrimination complaint or medical negligence?

Transgender Resistance: Socialism and the fight for trans liberation

By Laura Mi es

Trans rights and trans lives have come under increasingly vicious ideological attack in recent times, from the "bathroom wars" and Donald Trump's anti-trans edicts in the Un'ted States, to attacks on proposed changes to the Gender Recognition Act in Britain.

Transgender Resistance brings together key strands of the opposition to these attacks – on the streets, in communities, in workplaces and in unions. It addresses the roots of transphobia and the history of gender transgressive behav'ours.

It highlights trans peoples' fight for the freedom to live authentic l ves and explains why that fight deserves

As a publication that supports the rights of females, @WomensAgenda must be appalled at the misogynistic attack on the sex-based rights of girls and women, especially in areas where they are at their most vulnerable, eg rape crisis centres, domestic violence shelters, prisons.

6:37 PM · 29 Mar 2021

Graeme Bowman @graemebowman · 29s

The biggest potential problems arise when biological males attempt to self-id their way into these spaces. The purpose of these facilities is to care for females deeply traumatised by, in most cases, a male, so interaction with more males at this time can only make things worse

Graeme Bowman @graemebowman · 28s

Additional problems occur when such entitled males self-id into female-only spaces such as lesbian bars, social groups and dating sites, then bully, shame and attack the lesbians for rejecting their advances. The level of sexual harassment being experienced here is despicable

Graeme Bowman @graemebowman · 28s

Many of these critical problems stem from a deliberate attempt to confuse, distort and manipulate public discourse - and indeed the language, policies and laws that flow from it - by conflating sex (a biological fact) with gender (a socially constructed idea).

I wish everyone would STOP citing the outdated and debunked "50-60" pediatric gender clinic stat. There are 300 pediatric clinics in the US and a significant number of surgical pediatric (we're still verifying those). My team personally verified each pediatric pin by phone.

They are regressive for women, if any man can simply claim women's spaces and protections by claiming to "identify as" a woman, then women's rights are rendered meaningless and our boundaries no longer exist.

I think many people do not realise how brutal, vicious & dehumanising porn has become, nor that it is normal for a young boy to be exposed from the age of 9. That people do not recognise or accept the impact this exposure has on vulnerable developing brains defies belief.

You do realise that the word "t8rf" is a slur? Justice Julian Knowles of the UK High Court has said as much; it says far more about the person persisting in using it than the woman it is directed at.

This really cannot be stressed enough. The overwhelming majority of children & adolescents with gender dysphoria, left to grow up & go through a natural puberty, will be lesbian, gay or bisexual young adults. Affirming them, in childhood, as transgender, IS CONVERSION THERAPY.

Judges have chosen not to impose a custodial sentence on the grounds that being imprisoned in a male estate would be 'traumatic' But this is prison policy and is separate from sentencing

Thank you for clarifying. It's a fairly astonishing "get out of jail" free pass isn't it? I've seen it used in defences to mitigate criminal culpability here in Australia on several occasions, yet they also argue it's not a mental disorder.

14(a) and 14(g)

Women's Human Rights Campaign

Monday 29 March 2021

Feminism has been co-opted to support an agenda to lower the age of consent

ILGA World the International Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Trans and Intersex Association is actively promoting a "Feminist Declaration" which it describes as an alternative to the political declaration made annually by the United Nation's Commission on the Status of Women ("CSW"), that outlines the steps necessary to achieve gender equality

However deep within this detailed 16 page Declaration are provisions urging governments to "eliminate laws limiting legal capacity of adolescents to provide consent to sex" see 14a.

The document also calls for governments to "End the criminalization and stigmatization of adolescents' sexuality" (see 14g)

While Women's Human Rights Campaign (WHRC) Australia does not want teenagers labelled sex offenders for consensual non-abusive sexual activity with their peers and supports unimpeded access to birth control and abortion, there is concern that these demands would remove the ability to protect children from exploitation by adults and older adolescents

This document has apparently been signed by 200 organisations including the YWCA Australia which is the contract holder for the Equality Rights Alliance, which is funded by the Federal Government and is Australia's largest network advocating for women's equality

ILGA is a worldwide federation that claims to represent more than 1,600 organisations from over 150 countries and territories. Originally a male gay rights organisation established in 1978, according to the history recorded on its own website, until 10 years ago it was still excluded from United Nation's ECOSOC status because of its earlier association with groups actively promoting paedophilia. However ILGA is now exerting a powerful influence on women's human rights, promoting an agenda which includes legal recognition of sex on the basis of self-declaration and decriminalisation of prostitution. ILGA is also reported to be a major recipient of funding from US billionaires working to advance the trans movement

According to ILGA's website Australian member organisations include ACON, Australian Greens LGBTI members, Gay and Lesbian Rights Lobby, Human Rights Law Centre, Sydney Star Observer, UTS Sydney Queer Collective, Sydney University Postgraduate Rep Ass, Wear it Purple and many others

Meanwhile the WHRC was last week expelled from the Exhibition Hall during the NGO CSW Virtual Forum. WHRC promotes the Declaration on Women's Sex-Based Rights which advocates for continued recognition of women as adult human females and the freedom to express this reality and also works to protect women and children from sexual and reproductive exploitation, male violence

Feminism has been co-opted to support an agenda to lower the age of consent

ILGA World the International Lesbian, Gay Bisexual Trans and Intersex Association is actively promoting a 'Feminist Declaration' which it describes as an alternative to the political declaration made annually by the United Nation s Commission on the Status of Women ("CSW", that outlines the steps necessary to achieve gender equality

However deep within this detailed 35 page Declaration are provisions urging governments to "eliminate laws limiting legal capacity of adolescents to provide consent to sex" (see p48.,

The document also calls for governments to "End the criminalization and stigmatization of adolescents sexuality" (see 4g..

While Women s Human Rights Campaign (WHRC Australia does not want teenagers labelled sex offenders for consensual non-abusive sexual activity with their peers and supports unimpeded access to birth control and abortion. here is concern that these demands would remove the ability to protect children from exploitation by adults and older adolescents

This document has apparently been signed by 200 organisations including the YWCA Australia which is the contract holder for the Equality Rights Alliance which is funded by the Federal Government and is Australia's largest network advocating for women s equality

ILGA is a worldwide federation that claims to represent more than 1,600 organisations from over 150 countries and territories Originally a male gay rights organisation established in 1978, according to the history recorded on its own website until 20 years ago it was still excluded from United Nation s ECOSOC status because of its earlier association with groups actively promoting paedophilia However ILGA is now exerting a powerful influence on women s human rights, promoting an agenda which includes legal recognition of sex on the basis of self-declaration and decriminalisation of prostitution. ILGA is also reported to be a major recipient of funding from US billionaires working to advance the trans movement

According to ILGA s website Australian member organisations include ACON Australian Greens LGBTI members, Gay and Lesbian Rights Lobby, Human Rights Law Centre, Sydney Star Observer UTS Sydney Queer Collective, Sydney University Postgraduate Rep Ass. Wear it Purple and many others

Meanwhile the WHRC was last week expelled from the Exhibition Hall during the NGO CSW Virtual Forum. WHRC promotes the Declaration on Women's Sex-Based Rights which advocates for continued recognition of women as adult human females and the freedom to express his reality and also works to protect women and children from sexual and reproductive exploitation, male violence and medical experimentation

I've read that bit but ILGA has categorically condemned pedophilia. It was the subject of a decades long homophobic witch hunt despite expelling pedophile infiltrators in the early nineties. Why is the feminist legal clinic reprising this campaign?

Feminist Legal Clinic isn't doing anything except pointing out that this ILGA document states the position that ILGA are seeking to remove restrictions around consent in relation to children. We all know what this means, we've all seen it before.

Gillard did some truly great things the RC into child sex abuse was massively important, so was the NDIS. She also did things I strongly disagreed with I am happy to praise some & criticise others.

Gillard also passed the amendments to the SDA in 2013, effectively destroying women's rights and paving the way for gender identity to take precedence over sex in policy and regulation.

And it becomes difficult for you, if you're on social media this is the point really I want to make to separate out the abuse that you receive from accounts that are deliberately creating mischief and divide from accounts that belong to people who are, I would say, wrong but well meaning participants. And so in one's head a rather unfortunate thing happens. You find that you dislike everyone on the other side, unless you are extremely careful. And you tar everyone on the other side of the debate whether you be on the trans' side of the debate or the gender critical side of the debate with the same brush. And I know

Intelligent and educated people aren't immune to irrational beliefs. they're just better at justifying them and convincing others that they're right. Anyone can believe anything. no matter how ridiculous if it makes them feel special, exalted, virtuous, better than everyone else

24 · 115 · 614

Louise Ashworth @Ashworth101 · 14 Std

We should also distinguish between intelligent and educated. They seem to me to bear little relation to each other. This is anecdotal but people I speak to who are intelligent but not highly educated often have a far better grasp of material (& biological) reality

1 · · 18

Ia scapigliata © ascapigliata8 · 14 Std

I wouldn't go as far as saying that intelligence and education are unrelated, they clearly are. Which doesn't mean that everyone who is highly intelligent is highly educated, or that everyone who is highly educated is highly intelligent

2 · · 10

I'm usually on a limb with this view! I accept academic experts or highly specialised professionals are likely to be of above average intelligence. I just think having a degree v not having one is no indicator. But the latter affects social & political views undoubtedly

Has it escaped your notice that perhaps the reason the legislation is so successful in the JS because ordinary people do not want to see women & girls excluded, self-excluding, cheated out of places on the team or podium, or hurt or killed?

We recognise everyone is free to play sport, they do not have the right to play any category of their choosing. We have specific categories (age, sex, ability) for a reason. Evidence clearly demonstrates male biological advantage & significant increased risk of injury for females

Yes, no worries, as an Aussie I would often be taken for a Brit when overseas. And I'm of the view that no matter how much you may vehemently disagree with someone, there is no need to be impolite. You get far more traction by criticising the argument and not the person.

Another fellow academic at the Uni wrote an open letter denouncing HLS calling for her to be removed from teaching a Feminist course that she designed and is wholly qualified to give (being a radical feminist and a Lesbian!) docs.google.com/document/d/e...

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves · Apr 2
University of Melbourne responded, as far as I am aware they have said nothing further, even though TRAs came into HLS's office area and papered the space with pro-TRA flags and slogans

Trans rights activists held a protest yesterday on campus to denounce HLS and the website. A small, determined group of supporters wearing t-shirts in support of Holly went along - they stood silently as they were surrounded and verbally abused by enraged students

Earlier this week, two new systematic reviews of puberty blockers and cross-sex hormones were published. They were commissioned by NHS England, as part of a review of gender dysphoria healthcare led by Dr Hilary Cass. These reviews make sober reading. /1

SEGM @SEGMtweets 23 s

The major finding of the puberty blocker review was that GnRH agonists lead to little or no change in gender dysphoria, mental health, body image and psychosocial functioning. The review of cross-sex hormones identified significant shortcomings in the quality of the evidence. /2

In SEGM's view, the low confidence in the balance of risks and benefits of hormonal interventions calls for extreme caution when working with gender-dysphoric youth, who are in the midst of a developmentally-appropriate phase of identity exploration and consolidation. /3

Alice Roberts is trending because she has said children shouldn't be taught religion, as there's no scientific basis for it She also says children shouldn't be taught that there are two biological sexes because I don't like seeing science being used as an excuse for bigotry

The men who are choosing to identify as women to access single spaces and protections could respect women's boundaries, and then the men who then use this failure to "be kind" to threaten and abuse the women who resist these woman-identifying men could stop being misogynists too.

I feel for my poor wife she never used to have curly hair but since our son was born she's struggled to tame it 😂

But on a serious note the physical & emotional toll pregnancy & childbirth had on her is not one I underestimate I sometimes forget, but try hard not to.

Yes indeed, becoming a mother, particularly of daughters, truly awakened that within me. There is something extraordinarily powerful for women about giving birth to a child, you realise you are far stronger than you ever thought possible.

Pornography: one in eight titles shown to first-time users on the first page of mainstream porn sites describe sexual activity that constitutes sexual violence. New study of the 3 most popular UK porn websites, in the British Journal of Criminology academic.oup.com/bjc/advance-ar

Sexual violence as a sexual script in mainstream online pornography

Fiona Vera-Gray, Clare McGlynn, Ibad Kureshi and Kate Butterby*

*Fiona Vera-Gray, Durham University, Sociology Department, 32 Old Elvet, Durham DH1 3HN, UK. Fiona.vera-gray@durham.ac.uk; Clare McGlynn, Durham University, Law School, Stockton Wing, Durham DH1 3LE, UK. Ibad Kureshi, Durham University, Institute for Advanced Research Computing, South Road, Durham DH1 3LE, UK. Kate Butterby, Durham University, Sociology Department, 32 Old Elvet, Durham DH1 3HN, UK.

This article examines the ways in which mainstream pornography positions sexual violence as a normative sexual script by analysing the videos that are found on the landing pages of the three most popular pornography websites in the United Kingdom. The study draws on the largest research sample of online pornographic content to date and is unique in its focus on the content immediately advertised to a new user. We found that one in eight titles shown to first-time users on the first page of mainstream porn sites describe sexual activity that constitutes sexual violence. Our findings raise serious questions about the extent of this material easily and freely available on mainstream pornography websites and the efficacy of current regulatory mechanisms.

Key Words: pornography, sexual violence, sexual scripts, image-based sexual abuse, voyeurism, incest

The really incoherent thing about that piece of legislation is not that it refers to “gender” when the category is “sex”, but that you are free to change your “gender” on your birth certificate once every 12 months even though gender is allegedly innate.

It would seem @EnglandRugby think that female players are just non-males.

> The following are a list of commonly used terms in this Policy and are provided to ensure the Policy is clear to everyone who reads it. The RFU acknowledges that not all the terms are used or agreed on by all people.
> Transgender: refers to individuals whose gender identity (i.e. how they identify) is different from their sex assigned to them at birth, whether they are pre or post-puberty, and whether or not they have undergone any form of medical intervention).
> Transgender man: refers to an individual who is assigned as female at birth and who did not/will not experience a testosterone-driven puberty but identifies as a man (or boy, as appropriate).
> Transgender woman: refers to an individual who is assigned as male at birth and who experienced/will experience a testosterone-driven puberty but identifies as a woman (or girl, as appropriate).
> Non-binary: refers to individuals whose gender is neither male nor female, or both male and female, or whose gender does not relate to male and/or female.
> Sex: refers to an individual person's biological and physical characteristics, associated with being male or female.
> Gender: refers to the social and cultural contexts related to masculinity and femininity. It is also often used to refer to a person's sense of self as, for example, a man, woman or non-binary person, and to associated behavioural expressions.
> Male: refers to a person who produces testosterone at puberty and adolescence.
> Female: refers to a person who does not produce male levels of testosterone at puberty and adolescence.
> Age Grade Player: refers to a player participating in Age Grade Rugby.

Why do you think I'm "angriest" at women? How is pointing out that there are legions of women eager to participate in their own oppression indicative of my level of anger? If you look at my TF you'll see that they most certainly aren't the main focus of my criticism.

I have no problem with gay men becoming fathers.

I have no problem with women choosing to be a surrogate for men because "the woman wants to do it"

But I have a big problem with anyone building a career by ignoring biology & women's rights.. until it effects his interests.

Sex is determined at fertilisation, observed at birth and immutable it is not something a person can identify into or out of. Gender identity reflects sex based stereotypes name dress mannerisms appearance

The definition of gender identity as found in Australian legislation was drawn from a document called the Yogyakarta Principles This is a pseudo human rights document that purports to have enforceable authority yet it is merely a template for activism bolting together ideas from queer theory and post modernism

We are witnessing an extraordinary display of cognitive dissonance by our political and media class the promotion of little understood policies hostile to women s rights, while stories about male sexual harassment and violence loom large At what point will politicians and journalists face up to this contradiction?

Yep. My twins were prem, a month commuting daily to NICU, alarms in the winter night to express milk, 8 weeks to establish breastfeeding, 9 months for both of them to sleep at the same time. PND, extreme sleep deprivation. MAT leave was about survival for all 3 of us.

While interesting, this is not a reason to dismantle women's sex-based rights, erase sex in legislation and nor does it mean sex is anything other than binary

Even a straight forward and popular amateur as well as professional game like golf has identified the differences between male and female competitors with the men's minimum distance requirements around 15% to 20% more than the women's. That is not insignificant.

> The current top 50 of the world rankings is dominated by those that simply hit the ball the furthest. Indeed, the figure below highlights the huge jump in prize money associated with consistently exceeding a 310 yard drive in men's game.

Osmodias @osmod as 9 t

Pleasure of body can mean a couple of things in this sentence. It could mean bodily d ssat sfication, if you were born male but prefer to be female, or it could refer to masturbat on because they are talking about autonomy. Ultimately meaning self

Kirsty '79 @K rstyDuncombe 9 t

So you don't th nk a reasonable nterpretat on of it to say that people aged 10-19 can consent to sex?

Osmodias @osmod as 9 t

No, because it s a lega. def nition. It's talk ng about autonomy; which can only mean talk ng about oneself So that s either masturbation or pleasure in a legal sense meaning satisfaction

It's not about just looking feminine, and we don't need to do a "full evaluation", as I mentioned there are 3000 observable differences, we have evolved to be able to take note in a momentary glance.

Sex, however is defined as the reproductive anatomy that develops to support the production of either large or small gametes IRRESPECTIVE of whether they are actually produced or not. It's really not as difficult as James is working very hard to make it.

People need to stop caring what other people tell them to think and those of us who already think for ourselves should support these nascent groups where we can. @ALLIANCELGB are still going in the UK, as is @LGBAlliance_Aus where I live, & I found @LGBFightBack today, a US group

Roz Vecsey @vecsatious · 2 t

Totally agree but it doesn't stop the problem especially when it is people in power that are doing it. I've been labelled hateful just for saying there was no T in LGB in the 70/80s. They tried to get me sacked for transphobia. I'm self employed.

Roxane Exogamy-ist @brigadam · 2 t

I don't have an employment risk. I say a lot on this topic, get some positive online & IRL responses, & very little push back. I've no idea why. I've skin of steel, don't suffer fools/BS well & am not shy. I think about my words before using them & think I make good points

I've been lucky, I did have people trying to make trouble when I first spoke publicly. But I haven't attracted much ire otherwise, a few garden variety MRAs. Unlike other women I know who have received terrible harassment and threats.

My workplace (local authority) is trying to get us all to put pronouns in our signature now under the guise of being a trans ally Far too many people in the organisation don't know the consequences of this and believe they are "being kind"

Gill - stay safe @Fgh22Gi · 12 Std

Yep, being kind or professional has such dreadful consequences in a local authority that uses public funding from everyone, and is accountable to everyone, whatever their prejudices

Charly @CharlotteB1 · 11 Std

How is requiring ppl to signal their gender kind or professional?

Gill - stay safe @Fgh22Gi · 11 Std

That's an idiotic argument. Why should someone's sex matter for an email work communication? Google someone's name to figure out if the person is male/female if it's unfamiliar, response with Dear [name] or Colleague, no need for pronouns.

I would be making a complaint to the school, the department and the Anti-Discrimination Tribunal. It is a belief system our family do not ascribe to, and I will not have my children forced to go along with it. If it was a MtF I'd also be raising safeguarding.

The law is unclear and unsettled, but the AHRC has said if a sports org does not allow a male to use female facilities they would be liable for legal action. We need clear legislation. In Australia, single sex facilities have operated mostly on accepted social norms not law.

We "t8rfs" call ourselves "Terven" (plural) as in a Terven coven. It is derived from theWelsh word "terfyn"that means "end, limit or boundary".
We women hold the line, we defend the boundaries for women. It's a way we reclaim the slur that is levelled at us.

Donate blood if you are transgender

Being transgender does not in any way prevent you from being able to donate. All donors are addressed using the title and pronouns of their choice. NHS Blood and Transplant considers all donors to be the sex and/or gender that they identify as, including non-binary, genderfluid and agender donors.

Blood donation if you are transgender

As with all donors, a careful and sympathetic consideration of sexual risk factors is undertaken. The deferral for men who have sex with men

Why are we sacrificing the wondrous evolution of the English language (& others) for a relative handful of narcissistic bullies?
Authoritarian diktats designed to queer our words & their meanings so they apply to things they don't are limiting free thought.

This is because the majority of transgender people undergo hormone replacement therapy which brings their haemoglobin levels in line with most cis people of the same gender

The JPAC guidelines give more information about donation if you are transgender This link goes to a different website which may not use the same language as this site

The misrepresentation in this debate is disgusting. Male children with trans identity are NOT banned, they are rightfully being excluded from the female category. Women & girls have the right to retain integrity of the sports they fought for.

This will go down in history as akin to the Grudge trials of the Third Reich. I do not like to invoke Nazism, but the parallels are remarkable & deeply sinister. We can only hope that when society comes to its senses, it's redeemed by trials similar to Nazi Wife & Border Guards.

Hate to invoke it as well, but it's real time exposure to the methods used to gain support and silence so many. I understand what they were up against a lot more clearly. So many people not paying attention, and those who do punished and discredited.

Good question. No true Scotsman refers to any attempt to define a generalization by excluding a counterexample. Feminism is a social and political movement for gender equity. If you advocate for ideas that are antithetical to that goal, you are, definitionally, not a feminist.

Isn't this class what's the Greens call non-men?

Jim Butler @JimBUWDawg · 2 t
Could be, but by this tweet, I'm not sure transmen would be "non-men" since I would think the "transmen are men" mantra would apply from their perspective

Happy to get clarification from anyone in the know.

> Green Party Women
> 4 April 2020
> Green Party Women, as a whole, are happy with terms such as 'non-men' to be used to describe women, including transgender women, and non-binary people as a collective term. This is to avoid further marginalising certain groups of women, particularly those who have been excluded from womens movements for far too long.

Subjective feelings about identity should not be overriding the material reality of our sexed bodies, especially in sport. Males have a significant biological advantage, to pretend that "identity" overrides this is inherently harmful and discriminatory towards women and girls.

Separate but equal was a legal argument presented and eventually overruled in American courts but it's not limited to American application in the reasons it's wrong You cannot create equality through separation. The purpose of institutionalizing difference is to deny equality.

been hesitant to use these words, especially the "woman" word. I have often described myself as non-binary, which maybe is still true. I'm just gonna sit with that question for the moment). But I've come to terms with the fact that I am a woman, and yes for me it's complex, but it's complex to be any sort of woman. I am very proud to be a trans woman and to have come to know it and be able to say it. This has not been an easy journey.

About being a mom, there's enough said in public about the magic of parenthood. It is beautiful and holy and I love it- that's all on that subject. I have not yet mentioned in public that I'm a parent because I have been afraid of being judged and grilled about it as if it's anyone's business other than mine and my family's.

But I'm telling you I'm a mom now for a specific reason. Because one problem with being trans is that we have so few visions of what it can look like to have an adult life, to grow up and be happy and not die young. When our baby was born, I had approximately zero examples that I had seen of trans women raising children. So here's one for

Whether they like it or not, Bluey is 100% Australian suburban life. "Sticky Gecko" is my favourite as that was a morning I had once. "Sleepy time" freaked me out until I realised the orchestral music was my school song. I've had many of the exact same experiences with my kids.

It appears @Alancumming has waded into the gender wars while making the rookie error of conflating sexual orientation with gender identity. It also appears he has not spoken to any women. Whatsoever.

I'm so tired of some people saying that we radical feminists hate men 🤦 Being for something doesn't mean being against something else, as many people think. We are just 100% focused on women issues. The same way as men can be focused on their issues. Simple. No hate in it

Thoughts on that, from Andrea Dworkin:

> I don't believe rape is inevitable or natural. If I did, I would have no reason to be here. If I did, my political practice would be different than it is. Have you ever wondered why we [women] are not just in armed combat against you? It's not because there's a shortage of kitchen knives in this country. It is because we believe in your humanity, against all the evidence.

Is there anything more annoying than dim academics bleating that 'rights aren't like pie' as if they've made some profound discovery? Especially when so very many things classed as rights are exactly like pie & giving something to one group involves taking something from another

I've been removed from my position on the editorial board of Feminist Criminology for my alleged transphobia and 'anti-LGBTQ' sentiment.

So in thrall to the woke cult that they call young women and girls “school-aged menstruators”. This is grossly dehumanising - we are not body parts and bodily functions.

We need your help! In order to get more respondents, we need the message to be spread far and wide.

On our website we have posters, social tiles, print outs and conversation cards that are free to download to help spark the conversation and spread the message.

We particularly need more responses from school aged menstruators, so if you go to school or work as a teacher, we would love your help in spreading the message.

UPDATE: Share the Dignity have updated the post from "menstruators" to GIRLS with a very dignified apology. I don't think I have ever seen this happen in our favour. I commend them for listening to women. Please consider donating, I just did!

sharethedignity.org.au/get-involved/s …

We need your help! In order to get more respondents, we need the message to be spread far and wide

On our website we have posters, social tiles, print outs and conversation cards that are free to download to help spark the conversation and spread the message

We particularly need more responses from school aged menstruators, so if you go to school or work as a teacher, we would love your help in spreading the message

But their website hasn't been changed your trolley.

We menstruate. Get over it.

Share the Dignity is on a mission to end the shame and stigma that surrounds periods because if we can't comfortably talk about periods, we can't address period poverty. We need to accurately understand the shame people who menstruate experience and how it can impact their lives.

That's why we're conducting a bloody big survey on menstruation.

We're calling on 100,000 people who menstruate to respond to the survey so that the data can make a real on the ground difference. The survey takes just four minutes to complete.

Anyone else find it really hard not to blame women's orgs for spreading the 'TWAW' crap? I remember watching Pazza speak at a big lib fem conference and thinking, aw, poor thing, I must be kind ' now feel angry these groups lied to a huge audience about feminism.

It's infuriating. Many of those women's jobs are at those orgs. They're literally paid to protect women, but they're doing the opposite. So "regular women" are spending their scraps of spare, unpaid time doing the work that these orgs should have been doing

BTW, ICYMI, something from or relevant to your neck of the woods

par iament nsw gov a /lcdocs submiss

> More recently, however, it has been proposed that unlike sex, gender is neither fixed nor binary, and that the criteria for its application are subjective and self-determining. That is to say that with respect to gender anyone is that which they claim to be, and that this identity can be multiple. I am both masculine and feminine, variably: I am sometimes masculine and at other times feminine, or other. I am neither masculine nor feminine. This idea of self-determining gender- (or non-gender-)identity has met with opposition from two quarters. First, from those who favour only the biological classification male and female, with the possible exception of intersex, which is taken to be the result embryological abnormality; and second, from feminists, and queer theorists who hold that gender is also determinate and define themselves partly in terms of it.
> The idea of 'Gender Fluidity' (Non-Binary, etc.) is therefore a controversial, prescriptive conception advanced by a small number of advocates rather than a theoretically stable or robust concept. Additionally, it appears internally incoherent. If there are no objective or inter-subjective criteria for its application by reference to which a claim to be 'Gender-fluid' say can be adjudicated, then there is no concept or even conception (of a concept) at issue: instead there is simply an ungrounded declaration. This is why some have associated the rise of such terminology and associated behaviour with on the one hand attention-seeking, and the aspiration to celebrity, and on the other with histrionic personality disorder and identity disorder. Less dramatically however one may think of it as involving a conceptual confusion between sexual and or gender identity and personality characteristics.

The fact over 90% of CSE and sexual assaults are committed by males is probably why mothers with babies & young children get defensive in a space where they are vulnerable - it's a reasonable reaction. It's a reflection of society, no need to take it personally.

Women have their own public facilities currently. So, that's awesome for women, right?

Now, because Trans women are women - there's absolutely no issue 🤷

Men use Men's toilets. Women use women's toilets.

Males with a trans identity are not biological women. They do not have the same needs and bodily processes and functions that women have.

The fact over 90% of CSE and sexual assaults are committed by males is probably why mothers with babies & young children get defensive in a space where they are vulnerable - it's a reasonable reaction. It's a reflection of society, no need to take it personally.

Do you not understand that women having sex specific spaces, such as toilets, is important for us to be able to participate in public life? This goes to equality. Public conveniences for women are about 100 years old, first ones were burnt down by men

Unfortunately, there are a number of examples where the men's remain intact, and women are rebranded "gender neutral". The simpler solution would be to do it the other way around, the males with a trans identity demanding access are males, after all.

dr cathwrites @cathwrites 10 t

Or, to be less snarky about it:
1. People forgot that feminism centres WOMEN,
2. The various factions squabbled and split,

Malone told Medscape that he first became interested in this issue because he started receiving calls from primary care doctors who said they were seeing cohorts of friends — teenage girls — who were identifying as male, often clustered in groups. "Some girls were very distressed. Some were asking for hormones, some not. The primary care docs wanted to know what to do."

This phenomenon, Malone says, was very different from any gender dysphoria he had learned about in medical school or training, which was primarily in mature adult males who wanted to change sex or was the classical childhood-onset gender dysphoria where young children (mainly boys) reported feeling trapped in the wrong body.

The vast majority of youth now presenting with gender dysphoria are adolescents who suddenly express revulsion with their sex from birth, and 70% of them were born female. Many of them have comorbidities such as anxiety, attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, autism spectrum traits, and depression, Malone explains, which need to be considered.

This newer presentation — which has been termed late-, adolescent-, or rapid-onset gender dysphoria — has now been seen in every gender clinic in the western world, and there has been a huge surge in the number of cases. One recent US survey found a 4000% increase (over 40-fold) since 2006 [4], and there have been similar large increases in Finland [5], Norway [6], the Netherlands [7], Canada [8], and Australia.

The fact that a person's gender has become the acquired gender under this Act—

(a) does not affect the descent of any peerage or dignity or title of honour and

(b) does not affect the devolution of any property limited (expressly or not) by a will or other instrument to devolve (as nearly as the law permits) along with any peerage or dignity or title of honour unless an intention that it should do so is expressed in the will or other instrument.

Yes the traditional platforms one would expect to amplify and investigate an issue relating to the rights and safety of women and girls are stubbornly refusing to cover this issue. I suspect once it's "safe", they'll be on board, pretending they didn't betray us.

You think I'm getting PAID for that??? @SWS_australasia doesn't even have a bank account! We are volunteers who fit this in around family, jobs, study, households, sports etc. I have never received even $1 for my advocacy. I do it because I believe in women and girl's rights.

A woman who is the Sex Discrimination Commissioner should know what a woman is, know what sex is, and stop prioritising "gender identity" over sex whenever there is a conflict of rights. It's embarrassing.

An allegation has been made, @ladydeckpojok's friends will have read this and made conclusions that it could be someone they know. The allegation itself is far-fetched and a long, long way from credible, but that won't stop them speculating, coming to erroneous conclusions.

Sending you strength and solidarity from Australia @BluskyeAllison - this is vile and vicious. I am very much looking forward to following your upcoming hearing, and delighted it's been extended. You are extremely courageous in lighting the way for us all.

Yes. Made up an excuse. But it was weird, when he walked in & saw me. he didn't immediately stop & say oops sorry. I'm in the wrong place - he said "hello" & headed for the cubicle. I really just wonder if men are becoming aware that women's public toilets are becoming fair game.

3 3 37

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves 20 t
Yes. Social norms will be eroded. There will be men who will take advantage to transgress boundaries and invade these spaces, just because caz murray @msbedlam_caz 2 t

It will be one way traffic too. No women will be rushing to use the men's

Linda Hamonou @crazypuce 40 min
Actually if there's a creep in the women's, I'll go to the men's and tell them. Better be around men who know which toilet they belong in. Same with changing rooms, just enter theirs and tell them one of them got lost and makes women uncomfortable. Might fix the problem.

It was her choice to play! She loves it, although she's often reluctant to tackle - even though she is bigger and faster than the boys (at the moment, that will change of course). The boys are not afraid. The sex differences are real even at that age.

Calling women "cis" reduces us to a subset of our own sex, it's insulting and offensive.

If you think the debate between women and males with a trans identity is between two powerless groups, I question your grasp as to what is really going on here.

All girls deserve the same opportunities enjoyed by the women that came before - for a spot on the team or a place on the podium, for scholarships and a chance at a college education, opportunities to fulfil their dreams.

There R no men playing sport with women. Transwomen are playing with women ie people who have transitioned. Often such as in Rugby, there are women on the team that are bigger or more powerful. That is the reality. This why the Rugby community has mostly rejected the WR decision

Disagree. “Transwomen” are still males despite their identity, and they have a biological advantage. This advantage is retained even with testosterone suppression. Identity should not supplant biological reality in relation to sport.

@Bernard_Lane does it again!

Continuing to shine a light on the slow-moving scandal of experimentation on children presenting for treatment at Australian gender clinics, the alarming lack of transparency and data, and woeful inertia of politicians.

As much as I would like to concur, Laurel isn't actually cheating. Laurel, provided Laurel's testosterone levels have been <10 nmol/L for twelve months is perfectly entitled to compete in the female category, because the IOC believes "woman" is nothing more than a hormone level.

What is "psychologically female"? What you appear to be arguing is entrenching regressive sex stereotypes. It's getting tedious and boring. There are two biological sexes, and no one can change sex

I reckon if this study were repeated there would be lower acceptance of maternal language. 5yrs of BF & birth orgs imposing this language and enforcing its use

Helena Handbasket @nic_jameson 24h

So it's chicken and egg. Who is creating the demand for this language? I mostly see it coming from a small group of heterosexual women tbh.

I've spoken to midwives - they are woman-centred (not women-centred) b/c they centre the individual woman in their care. They accept and support each woman as she is, if that means male pronouns b/c GD, they would respect that. No need to erase language for all women.

@ALLIANCELGB have charitable status after a lengthy investigation, they are now the sole LGB advisory group to UK Parliament, Stonewall is no longer on the panel. I would surmise from this that Stonewall's credibility and influence is on the wane.

These policies absolutely put coaches, managers, umpires and referees at risk of litigation We are hearing stories of volunteers already stepping away, and they are the lifeblood of community level sport.

Sam Bro @sam1bro May 7

There coming in as children. You gana sue or send community volunteers to court??? Dafuq???

Katherine Deves @katherine_deves May 7

Yep, in rugby in particular The burden of risk has been shifted to referees to make the call when males are playing in the female category. Due to the chilling effect of people being told its discriminatory to exclude people on basis of gender identity from playing ..in the category of their choice, refs will be forced to choose between a discrimination complaint or putting females at elevated and known risk of injury, so they are stepping away from volunteering.

My boyfriend is a Redditor. He doesn't use r/relationship_advice I'm pretty sure but I'm really hoping he somehow sees this post. I'm half here for validation because I feel like I'm going insane and can't tell anybody I know for obvious reasons, but if I am being unreasonable, please tell me.

My boyfriend has a sex doll. It's not like Lars and the Real Girl, it looks like an anime girl and couldn't pass for a real person. This is why he refuses to get rid of it. He says I shouldn't be jealous because she's fulfilling an impossible void...no real woman could have boobs and an ass like hers, hair like hers, be willing for any act all the time, etc. He doesn't see her as a real person and he says it's the same as me owning a dildo or something. I don't own a dildo. I'm 24 and I thought both of us were too mature and financially unstable to waste money on sex things we could just do with each other, but the anime doll apparently disagrees. He keeps her in our bedroom closet but I literally have my clothes in there.

I don't want to break up but the longer I live with him the closer I am to snapping and setting it on fire. How can I phrase the fact that I want him to get rid of it in a way that doesn't make me seem jealous or prudish or unreasonable? And am I being any of those three things?

EDIT: to answer some questions: Yes, he did tell me he prefers sex with the doll, but he's says it's only natural and he doesn't expect an actual woman to compare. Yes, I'd be fine with a pocket pussy. I also didn't mean to shame any dildo owners by the way. I just personally feel like it would be a waste of money for me. I said "mature" because we're not exactly rich and this thing costed a LOT of money and the clothes, accessories, etc have just been adding up. He has rejected me for the doll before but not often

What do you think about calling women "birthing bodies", "pregnant people" or "gestating parent"? Is that sort of disembodiment & dehumanisation okay w/ you - "obscuring the fact that it is males exploiting the reproductive resources & bodies of females".

	Respect their confidentiality. Being trans is not a child protection issue in and of itself, only if there is additional threat of harm present, in line with the national guidelines.	Tell them if their parent/guardian asks directly – say you don't know, reassure the parent that the most important thing is the young person's happiness and feeling of safe spaces. Encourage them to speak to their young person
Confidentiality and Gender History	Respect the fact that some trans young people specifically those who are already out, may not wish to discuss their gender history, transition, etc. or have that known by other people	Don't break confidentiality or seek information you have not been offered. A transgender person's gender history is personal information and – should never be assumed that this is knowledge that can be shared with colleagues or other young people. It is an invasion of privacy and a breach of trust.
Relationships	Be open about the person's sexual orientation and gender identity if it is an issue they discuss or if you are talking about partners, girlfriends/boyfriends, etc. Don't make assumptions or use language that implies that you are e.g. talking about either boyfriends or girlfriends, rather than partners.	Don't make assumptions about a transgender person's sexual orientation Transgender people can be gay, lesbian, bisexual, or straight
Physical Appearance	Be aware that setting restrictions for young people on clothes/jewellery/make up can create a barrier for trans young people to express their gender identity	Avoid comments or remarks about physical appearance just as you would if the young person were not trans. Don't try to show your approval or acceptance by remarking on how feminine/male their clothes are
Terminology	Respect the terminology a transgender person uses to describe their identity. Transgender people use many different terms to describe their experiences. Respect the term a person uses to describe themselves (transgender, non-binary, genderqueer etc.)	Never prescribe a label to a person. A transgender young person may take some time and may try different words and labels to figure out the best fit in terms of language and terminology. It's all about being open and accepting of them as they find ways to feel secure in themselves.
Discrimination	Challenge any anti-transgender remarks or jokes that are made in your working environment. Think about creating a culture of acceptance. This can sometimes	Don't facilitate a culture where discriminatory language or attitudes are tolerated. This is the antithesis of a safe space and will exclude trans

Referring to women as "birthing parents" "gestat ng or pregnant people", to breastfeeding as "chestfeeding" Why s it suddenly shameful to speak of WOMEN & BREASTS? It is dehumanising & harmful to erase the concept of "mother" & "woman" from human reproduction. 2/
